

GABRIEL GUZMAN

MUSICIAN AND EDUCATOR

Gabriel Guzman is a Mexican musician whose musical journey spans over 25 years, touching hearts in both Mexico and the United States. As a professor at the National Autonomous University of Mexico, he shares his love for music with students and has performed at prestigious venues. Gabriel's song "Café Café," with Radio Jarocho, has reached over 1 million listeners on Spotify and is cherished in traditional music and dance. His compositions are also featured in the American film, The Old Ways, which was inspired by Veracruz legends. Now balancing his time between Mexico and Washington, DC, Gabriel continues to inspire families through his performances at schools and festivals and by sharing his musical story in his book, De un Fandango.
